Take-Home Assignment: Learning from Acts 4

Dear Parents and Guardians,

Today, we explored a story from the Bible, Acts 4. We learned about the courage of Peter and John as they spoke about Jesus to everyone, even when they were told not to. This story helps us understand the importance of speaking kindly, sharing, and being brave. Here is a simple activity you can do at home with your child to reinforce these lessons.

Story Review:
- Ask your child to tell you who the main characters of the story were (Peter and John) and what they were doing (talking about Jesus and helping others).
- Discuss why they needed to be brave. Encourage your child to think about a time they had to be brave and talk about it together.

Activity: Kindness and Courage Jar

Materials Needed:
- A small jar or container
- Craft sticks or small strips of paper
- Crayons or markers

Instructions:
1. Decorate the Jar: Let your child decorate the jar using crayons, stickers, or colorful paper. This will be their "Kindness and Courage Jar."

2. Create Message Sticks: Help your child write or draw small acts of kindness and courage on the craft sticks/paper. These can include:
- Helping a family member
- Sharing a toy
- Saying something nice or encouraging

3. Daily Practice: Each day, encourage your child to pick a stick from the jar and complete the task. After completing the task, discuss how it made them feel and why kindness and courage are important.

Questions to Discuss:
- What is something kind you can do for someone today?
- How can you be brave if you feel scared?

Reflection:
At the end of the week, talk with your child about the different acts of kindness they did. Discuss how their actions made a difference to the people around them and themselves.

Thank you for helping reinforce this lesson at home. Remember, speaking kindly and being brave are things we can practice every day!

With love and learning,

[Your Child's Teacher]
